WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 2026

Session 3: 9:30 am – 10:30 am

Best Practices and Next Steps after Transitioning to TABE 13&14 and TABE CLAS-E

This session will share how states, larger community college programs and local programs have transitioned to the new versions of TABE and TABE CLAS-E.

Presenter: Mike Johnson – National Adult Education Director, Data Recognition Corporation (DRC)

Categories: Adult Education – Directors, Teachers, ESL

Arm Them with the Basics

Arm Them with the Basics will demonstrate a quick and easy way to equip your students with the background knowledge they need to pass the Social Studies and Science HSEs with confidence. Born out of necessity, Veteran public-school teacher and ATIII, Pamela Winn developed a self-paced program for each subject. Happily, the programs have produced repeated successes in her finishing room at Moberly Correctional Center.

Presenter: Pamela Winn – Academic Teacher, III, Moberly Correctional Center

Building Workforce Minds: From Attention Span to Application

Adult learners juggle busy lives and career goals, yet traditional surface instruction often leaves them unprepared for real-world demands. This interactive session explores how attention span influences persistence, why deeper learning matters, and how active learning strategies can bridge classroom instruction with workforce readiness. Through case studies and contextualized activities, participants will gain practical tools to move learners from memorization to application—building critical thinking, communication, and teamwork skills that strengthen both educational and career outcomes.

Presenter: Chris Miller – National Consultant, Aztec

Creating Healing-Centered Spaces for Adult Learners

Extended Session – Sessions #3 & #4

Part 1: Understanding the Impact of Trauma and Chronic Stress

Trauma and chronic stress can take many forms and affect how people learn, process information, and engage with others. These experiences often show up in adult education settings in ways that can be challenging for both learners and instructors. This training will cover the impact of stress and trauma on the adult brain, explore how they may manifest in the classroom, and how they can interfere with learning and retention.

Part 2: Strategies for Trauma-Informed Teaching

Once we understand the effects of trauma and chronic stress, we can respond with effective, supportive strategies. In this section, participants will learn trauma-informed teaching practices designed to create safe, welcoming environments from the moment adult learners walk in the door. These practices can help reduce barriers to learning, support positive classroom behaviors, and improve learner engagement and comfort.

Presenter: Andrea Echelberger – Adult EL Teacher & Trainer, Common Ground Literacy

Go the Extra Degree: HSE Gains in a Multi-Level Class

This session explores practical strategies for improving HSE outcomes in multi-level classrooms by “going the extra degree.” Participants will engage in hands-on, differentiated activities and leave with ready-to-use resources to enhance instruction and drive measurable student success.

Presenter: Denise Esslinger – Professional Development Consultant, New Readers Press/DKE Professional Development

Categories: Adult Education – Teachers, ESL

Grammar Part 1: Form

Grammar is full of exceptions! How do I explain them all to my students? Come learn what is stable in this seemingly fickle relationship, I mean language, and become better equipped to answer students' questions with more than "English is crazy!"

Presenter: Melinda Brown-Mason – ELL Director of Curriculum & Instruction, Literacy KC

Strengthening Distance Learning in Adult Education: Practical Strategies, Shared Solutions

Adult education programs continue to adapt and innovate to meet the needs of learners participating through asynchronous and synchronous distance learning formats. In this interactive round-table session, participants will share challenges, strategies, and promising practices in distance learning for Adult Education and Literacy programs. Through guided discussion and collaborative problem solving, attendees will leave with concrete ideas to improve learner engagement, persistence, digital skill development, and instructional quality across varied program models.

By the end of this session, participants will be able to:

1. Differentiate effective strategies for asynchronous vs. synchronous distance learning environments
2. Identify common barriers adult learners face in distance education (technology, time, motivation, persistence, literacy levels)
3. Share and reflect on current practices with peers to expand instructional toolkits
4. Develop a network of colleagues at other AEL programs
5. Develop one actionable change to implement in their own program

NOTE: This session is limited to 30 Participants

Presenters: Christy Schneiders – Professional Development Specialist, DESE Adult Education & Literacy

Reading the Room

For most of our students, attendance is not compulsory. This presentation will focus on strategies and invite collaborative discussion on how to create classrooms that promote community, engagement, and learning. Emphasis will be placed on core concepts of self-directed learning and educational motivation. The intent is to encourage teachers to continuously reflect on their instructional practice and look for areas that they can improve.

Presenter: Karen Wright – AEL Program Coordinator, Kansas City Public Schools

Unlocking HiSET Success: Using Data and Collaboration to Strengthen Learner Pathways

A strong HiSET program begins with understanding learner data. This session reviews the HiSET Statistical Report to identify participation trends, pass rates, subject strengths, and retesting patterns. Participants will explore what the data reveals about learner needs and barriers, then identify practical strategies to improve instruction, supports, referrals, and testing operations. The session also introduces the HiSET Workforce Hub, a partner-driven platform connecting credential attainment to workforce pathways and strengthening collaboration among education, workforce, and community partners.

Presenter: Marquette Vital – HiSET Community Manager, PSI Services LLC
